Cattle Growers Protest Ban on Feed Additive

Livestock producers are up in arms because the Food & Drug Administration has banned the use of the feed additive DES (diethylstilbestrol) when the market supply is exhausted no later than Jan. 1, 1973.

The Farmland News, published by Farmland Industries, Inc., Kansas City, Mo., reports in its Aug. 31 issue: "Cattle are 15 per cent less efficient in feed conversion without DES," says Dr. Russell John, Farmland's director of research. "It will take 500 pounds of feed to produce a pound of beef, and the steer will produce 750 pounds more waste during the additional 30-day period needed to finish the animal."

"Some say we can pass this cost on to the consumer. That is not necessarily true. If the consumer says meat is too high, he'll find alternate foods. Unless the demand is there the feeder can't get the prices he needs for his cattle."

The magazine goes on to say: "Under the 1958 amendment to the Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, FDA must ban any additive found to cause cancer regardless of the level at which it shows up in foods."

"Since requirements of the law can not be met, we have no choice but to discontinue approval for use of the chemical," said FDA's Dr. Charles C. Edwards. He noted that DES residues have been a minute fraction compared to dosages of estrogen given for the treatment of human ills and DES has been found only in animal livers.

(Dr. John, of Farmland Industries, Inc., explained that DES and estrogen are "hormones" and the same in biological activity. Both are considered carcinogenic. The difference is that DES is an artificially produced compound manufactured chemically.)

"The ban on DES will eliminate a product in use since 1954, and currently used in over 75 per cent of the feedlot cattle. FDA's Dr. Edwards was also quoted as saying, 'DES has been used for nearly two decades, without a single known instance of human harm.'"

So production costs of meat will go up and retail prices will be higher not so much due to a definite laboratory finding but because of the wording of a federal law.

Even if the laboratory report were more definite I am reminded of the federal report against Cyclamate more than a year ago—when it finally was disclosed that Cyclamate had been judged harmful to a test person who was given dosages equivalent to drinking 48 bottles of Cyclamate-sweetened soft drink in one day!

The DES case, however, hinges on law rather than laboratory report—disclosing that Congress is wearing two hats: its own, and the one that belongs to the doctor.

Milk truck is stolen

A fully-loaded Midwest milk truck was reported stolen from the dairy farm on West Avenue B late Sunday, but the truck was recovered early today (Monday) in a ditch at the intersection of Greenwood and Walnut.

Nothing was reported stolen from the truck, according to Asst. Police Chief James Rowe. The investigation is continuing.

3 killed

Three persons were killed about 5:30 a.m. Sunday when they were run over by a tractor-trailer truck near Prescott. The three men were lying in the eastbound lane of Interstate 30 about four miles east of Prescott, the State Police said.

The victims were identified as Prentis Reynolds, 34, Marvin Berthia, 17, and his brother, Terry Berthia, 15, all of Hot Springs. David Henderson, 28, of Chino, Calif., told officers he saw the three on the road but did not have time to stop.

Officers said the three men were seen about 2 a.m. at a service station and again about 4 a.m. walking down the highway.

The bodies were sent to Little Rock for autopsies. An investigation into the accident is continuing.

Important bridge in Hanoi smashed

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. jets made some of the most devastating raids on the war against Hanoi and its suburbs Sunday, wrecking North Vietnam's biggest and most important bridge and smashing four military installations covering more than 300 acres, the U.S. Air Force announced today.

But the Air Force's report of heavy damage in North Vietnam was offset by a revised field report that explosions Sunday at a bomb storage dump at 'Bien Hoa Air Base, 15 miles northeast of Saigon, destroyed or damaged 70 South Vietnamese helicopters.

It was the worst aircraft loss of the war for the South Vietnamese and will severely restrict their operations at a critical time, when renewed North Vietnamese offensive action is expected.

On the political front, the Viet Cong issued a new peace statement saying it would agree to a coalition government dominated by neither the Communists nor the Saigon regime provided the United States gets out of Vietnam completely and takes President Nguyen Van Thieu with it. U.S. analysts were studying the statement to determine if it contained anything new.

Trying to save the Reader

Hope Scouts Denise Dougan, 10, Scott Van Horn, 8, (center) and Joe, 11, have been circulating a petition aimed at showing public support to keep the Reader Railroad near Prescott in operation. It was announced recently that the Reader would be forced to shut down operations due to financial problems. The three Scouts have more than 50 names on their petition and plan to send it to "anyone who wants it and can do something to save the Reader," Joe Van Horn said. Joe and Scott are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Van Horn, and Denise is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Dougan.

Fire guts Lucille's Cafe

A fire of undetermined origin gutted Lucille's Cafe on East Division St., early this morning, and heavily damaged two other adjacent vacant buildings. Volunteer fireman Charlie Smith, above, was on the scene to help battle the blaze. Only the walls of the cafe, owned by Mrs. Lucille Jones, were left standing; the roof collapsed during the blaze and all the furnishings were lost. Mrs. Jones told the Star, "I won't be rebuilding here or anywhere else." Firemen battled the blaze for more than an hour before bringing it under control. (See other photo on next page.)

Arabs arrested trying to leave Munich

MUNICH (AP) — Three Arabs, one a woman, were taken into custody in the past two days while trying to leave Munich by plane. German police announced today as they continued to probe the Arab terrorist raid on the Olympic Village.

Police said the names of the three had been found in the pockets of the five Arab guerrillas killed Tuesday night in the gun battle in which the Israeli hostages died.

Police emphasized that they had no other evidence linking the three to the Arab raid.

The names of the three were not disclosed.

German border police were making a tight security check of all passengers going through Munich Airport on this final day of the Olympics. All were searched, those traveling on domestic as well as international flights.

The police indicated that they thought a report of shots at the Olympic Village Sunday night was a false alarm.

The police called off their search for a gunman after combing the athletes' residential area all night with dogs. Detectives said they found no spent bullets, no empty cartridge and no other evidence that any shots had been fired.

Strong police reinforcements were rushed into the village Sunday night amid fears of another terrorist attack like the one Tuesday in which 11 Israelis, five Arabs and one Munich policeman were killed.

As during Tuesday's tragedy, conflicting reports and rumors flooded into the Olympic press center across the campus from the Olympic Village.

Munich police gave this version of Sunday night's activity:

Five shots were fired. A gunman was seen firing from a spiral staircase outside the quarters of the Moroccan team. The gunman got away. No casualties were found.

A police official suggested that it "could have been an evil practical joke."

About the time the shots were heard, a 17-year-old Austrian fell to his death from a flagpole near the village while apparently trying to steal an Olympic flag. Hans Klein, the head of the Olympics' press section, said the death absolutely was not connected with the shooting.

Another Olympic official said the shots were heard in the area of the French quarters—where, about that time, the French were toasting their 1,600-meter relay team's bronze medal with champagne.

"Champagne bottles go pop, as everyone knows," one of the Frenchmen commented.

The shots also were supposed to have been heard near the Soviet quarters, but "the Russians heard nothing," an Olympic spokesman said.

Some newsmen, however, saw police swarm into the Russian area. Several photographers were roughed up by security guards, and their press credentials were taken away as they attempted to take pictures in that area.

The German government announced meanwhile that autopsies of the nine slain Israeli hostages showed the Arab terrorists shot all of them as they sat tied and blindfolded.

Peace statement is issued by VC

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong issued a new peace statement today saying it is "prepared to accept a provisional government of national concord that shall be dominated by neither side."

U.S. sources in Saigon interpreted this as a concession that neither side can win the war militarily. But Viet Cong and North Vietnamese spokesmen have said repeatedly in the past—for public consumption, at least—that the coalition government they proposed would be a coalition of equals, with none of the factions dominating.

The Viet Cong termed the three-page declaration "an important statement on ending the war in Vietnam and restoring peace." But at first reading it appeared to be no more than a reiteration of previous Communist peace demands. Once again it called on the United States to withdraw all its troops from Vietnam, to stop supporting the regime of President Nguyen Van Thieu, and to halt the bombing and mining of North Vietnam.

The Viet Cong also repeated its previous formula for the makeup of the government of national concord—a three-segment coalition composed of (1) members of the Provisional Revolutionary Government, (2) members of the Saigon administration excluding Thieu, and (3) representatives of other political forces in South Vietnam "including those who, for political reasons, have been compelled to live in exile."

"These three segments of this government are on the same footing and equal," the statement said.

U. S. kills resolution

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States cast its second veto in the history of the U.N. Security Council Sunday night. It killed a resolution demanding a halt to Israeli reprisal raids but making no mention of the Arab terrorism that provoked the raids.

The veto came after an all-day debate on the Palestinian guerrilla massacre of Israeli Olympic athletes in Munich Tuesday and Israeli air strikes Friday at reputed guerrilla positions in Syria and Lebanon.

China and the Soviet Union earlier had vetoed amendments that would have applied the resolution to terrorist activities as well as military operations.

U.S. Ambassador George Bush said their vetoes killed "a very important passage that could have made the resolution more acceptable."

Explaining his own veto, he said the resolution ignored realities and "looked to effect but not to cause." Its "silence on the disaster in Munich" invited more terrorism, he said.

"We seek and support a world in which athletes need not fear assassins and passengers on planes need not fear hijacking, Bush declared.

Bush got applause from the gallery for his veto. And Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah, absent because of the Jewish New Year, told newsmen by telephone that the U.S. vote would be "applauded by the people of Israel."

Ambassadors Haissam Kelani of Syria and Edouard Ghorra of Lebanon, who had asked for the meeting, registered dissatisfaction. Ghorra said he was "deeply disappointed" by the U.S. veto and could not let the matter rest. But both he and Kelani called the resolution that failed too weak.

A men's Independent Basketball Association meeting will be held at the Hope Youth Center Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., according to Brint Odom. Anyone interested in playing or having a team has been urged to attend.

The Hempstead County Cattlemen's Association will meet at 8 p.m. tomorrow (Tuesday) at Perry's Restaurant in Perrytown. A program on "planting seeds for winter pasture" is planned.

Mrs. Diane Lauterbach, local revenue inspector, announces that the revenue office will be closed all day Tuesday, Sept. 12, due to a district meeting being held here.

Diplomat is wounded in Brussels

BRUSSELS (AP) — A gunman believed to be an Arab wounded an Israeli diplomat Sunday night in a Brussels cafe, the Israeli Embassy reported today.

The embassy said Zakok Ophir, 42, was hit by five bullets in the liver, ear and shoulder. It said he was operated on but was not out of danger.

He was shot by a man who gave his name as Mohammad Rabah, the embassy said. The Israeli State Radio said he might be a Moroccan.

The gunman escaped, and Belgian police were looking for him.

The embassy gave this account:

A man identifying himself as Mohammad Rabah phoned Ophir Sunday and told him he had information on an attack planned against the embassy.

Ophir asked him to come to the embassy, but the caller said he preferred to meet at a cafe downtown. When Ophir identified himself at the cafe, the man pulled a gun and shot five times.

Climer in 'Bryant Country'

Jerry Climer, Republican candidate for secretary of state, invaded "Kelly Bryant Country" Saturday in his quest to oust the Hope native from state political ranks.

Climer said he made it a point to visit Hempstead County and Hope, Bryant's hometown, "because there are a lot of voters here and we believe that the voters have to make a choice between a favorite son or a man standing on the issues."

"I have some solutions to problems," Climer told a Star reporter, "and I want the people of Arkansas to realize just what the job of secretary of state means."

Climer then made the following statement:

"During the last weeks, I have been talking about proposals that specifically concern the people of Hempstead County."

"The people of Hempstead County are being kept in the dark about the inner workings of state government. Though you pour millions of tax dollars into the state bureaucracy, the money simply disappears from sight. I have therefore proposed that the secretary of state abandon his usual passive role, and become involved in public affairs education."

"The secretary of state's office should help inform the people of this county about the functions, services, and structure of all state government. By keeping you informed, you will have a chance to better cope with state government and have the possibility to control the change. When you need or want something done, the Secretary of State's office will help guide you in finding the right people to talk to."

"I have proposed five specific actions that the secretary of state can take, using very little tax money, to better serve the people in public affairs education. Included in these proposals are the writing of a comprehensive booklet about state government to be actively distributed to such places as schools, civic meetings, etc.; training tour guides at the State Capitol to answer questions about government; beginning an Arkansas Citizenship Internship to bring young people into state government to show them how it functions; a model state government program for high school students; and creative use of television and radio in involving people in state government.

All of this is important to you because the functioning of democracy depends on involvement of the people in their government. People can be involved only when they are informed. That will be my task.

Another proposal that I have made is closely related. One of the best ways that a state can prepare for its future is by acknowledging and honoring its past. Unfortunately, we in Arkansas have not valued our heritage. We have let its importance go unnoticed.

The activity involved in planning and executing the displays should help reawaken pride in our state and create a new awareness about our state's diversity and greatness.

"The Capitol will be transformed from a dull office building into a lively, stimulating showcase of history. Since thousands of school children visit the Capitol each year, it will have a continuing positive influence on the young."

"As a result of these two proposals, Public Affairs Education and Completion of the State Capitol, I feel that the people of Hempstead County will feel a little proud of their home state and their government."

Climer, 31, is married to the former Mary Ann Medlin. They have two children, Greta, 3, and Matthew, 1.

He now serves as Pulaski County Clerk, and, because he was appointed to the position, he could not seek re-election.

Climer also met with his campaign coordinator for Southwest Arkansas, Mrs. Haskell Jones.

Kennedy new star in McGovern stable

VERNON SPACE CENTER, Minn. (AP) — George McGovern, his presidential campaign about to get some fresh glamour in the form of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, said today that "Fifth Avenue farmers" are taking over American agriculture.

"Unless we act quickly," McGovern said, "the names on the mailboxes of rural America in 1980 will no longer be Smith and Jones. They will be Tenneco and Ralston-Purina and Dow Chemical," firms heavily involved in agriculture.

The Democratic presidential candidate said in a speech for the annual Farmfest Day here that the Nixon administration "has thrown in the towel in the battle to save independent farming. They have nothing left for the small and medium-sized farmer except lip service."

Repeating his often-stated assertions that top policymakers in the Agriculture Department are partial to huge agribusiness concerns at the expense of small farmers, McGovern called for passage of legislation to "prohibit giant nonfarm corporations from engaging in farming, directly or indirectly."

He said tax advantages that "encourage nonfarm interests to go into agriculture" must be eliminated.

McGovern, entering his second week of full-time campaigning for Richard Nixon's job, is to be joined tonight by Kennedy.

The Massachusetts senator, who earlier this summer turned down McGovern's offers to accept the vice-presidential nomination, will join McGovern for a rally in Minneapolis tonight and campaign with him in Chicago.

CHUTIST IS KILLED

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — One man was killed and another was injured Sunday evening when they collided during a parachute jump near here and plunged to the ground.

They were participating in a weekend sport parachuting meet.

The victim was identified as Dustin M. Crain, 21, of North Little Rock, son of George Crain of Benton, an automobile dealer.

cago, Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and other Eastern cities through Thursday.

McGovern's staff aides are counting on Kennedy's presence to help attract huge crowds during the busy three days he will be with the candidate. For the first time since McGovern's campaign formally started last week, he will be holding rallies in huge auditoriums and convention centers.

The South Dakotan Sunday seemed to enjoy his appearance before the largest crowd he has faced since his party's convention in early July.

Prescott man dies in crash

By The Associated Press
LAVON B. CLARK, 50, of Prescott was reported killed in a two-car collision on U.S. 82 about five miles west of El Dorado Saturday.

State Police said a car driven by Mildred Jenkins, 51, of Crossett attempted to pass another car and hit a vehicle driven by James E. Lieckfeldt, 32, also of Crossett.

Also killed in the accident was Lieckfeldt's one-year-old son, James Jr.

Services for Clark are pending.

Eleven persons were killed on Arkansas highways during the weekend.

The latest victim was John H. Jones, 18, of Arkadelphia.

State Police said Jones apparently lost control of his car about 8 p.m. Sunday on a curve on Arkansas 7 about nine miles south of Arkadelphia. State Police said the car overturned, throwing Jones from the car, which then rolled over him.

Other victims over the weekend were Terry Lee Childress, 10, of Knoxville; Sandra Darlene Culp, 27, of Memphis, and J. D. Dehart, 36, of Paragould.

FOOD FOR AMERICANS

Homemade doughnuts

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Bread making and other forms of baking are returning to the home scene. The results are as quick to see as baking time permits. A favorite of Americans is the doughnut. Once the technique is mastered you will want to experiment by adding spices or using a variety of fillings for flavor treats.

BASIC DOUGHNUTS

2 1/2 cups flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 egg, slightly beaten
1/2 cup sugar
1 quart (about) corn oil
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/2 cup milk
Confectioners' sugar (optional)

Sift together twice flour baking powder, salt and cinnamon. Mix together egg, sugar, 1 tablespoon of the corn oil and lemon rind; beat until light and fluffy. HELEN BOTTEL

He Goes Home to Mommy

Dear Helen:
Frank and I were married two days and a half before he left for 'Nam. That was five months ago, and I am five months pregnant.

He came home on a 30-day leave but, after spending two weeks with me, he took off to spend the rest with his folks. He didn't offer to take me with him because they have done their best to split us up. They've told lies about me, said I "stole" their furniture (when actually the store repossessed it) and that because of me, they left town (they sneaked off to avoid bill collectors).

I don't know who Frank believes, but it looks like he's on their side. Don't you think a man's place is with his wife especially when he's only got a month in the States?

I love him, but if he's going to spend half his time with his folks, maybe it means he prefers their shiftless ways. Should I just give up?—MARRIED TO A MAMA'S BOY
DEAR MTMB:

Don't give up until you've given marriage more than a two and one-half days, plus two weeks' trial. When Frank comes home for good you'll soon know which "mama" he prefers (men DO grow up when they realize they are husbands-and-fathers). Meanwhile write to him every day—and be grateful for your allotment check.—H.

DEAR MRS.B.:
About the "man" who was sent to jail for draft dodging and got gang-raped: He's now going back to jail (crime conveniently unmentioned by him) unless his lawyer can soften up the jury with a big sob story.

That's the trouble with our country. A coward won't fight for it so he gets what he deserves—but I'll bet a lot of weeping-Lenas write in about how prison ruins "peaceful" young men!

Instead of sticking to the sidelines with a neutral answer, Mrs. B., you should have reminded him that sneaking deserters have been SHOT in other wars!—NO TEARS FOR TRAITORS

DEAR NO:

Sorry, I'm not that vindictive. Nor am I that dedicated to a war we should never have fought.

What this young man's present crime rating is I don't know but of one thing I'm sure: he did not "deserve" gang-rapes.

I can do without your brand of bloodthirsty "patriotism"!—H.

DEAR HELEN:
Please tell me the effect powdered starch has on a person who eats it by the box.

My wife consumes a full one pound of washing starch every day. She says she craves it. I may be wrong but I have noticed a change in her skin complexion and size of stomach.—HUSBAND
DEAR HUSBAND:

I've heard of "putting starch in your backbone" but this is ridiculous. Your wife's unusual craving should be checked out by a doctor. It may come from an imbalance in her system.—H.

Children need iron-rich food

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Many mothers may fail to realize how important iron is to their very young children. In fact, Dr. Samuel I. Foman, professor of pediatrics at the University of Iowa College of Medicine, says:

"Iron deficiency anemia is almost certainly the most prevalent nutritional disorder among infants and children in the United States."

It is found most frequently among poor children. It must be emphasized that even a better diet, one that is properly balanced, cannot prevent anemia unless it is high in iron-rich foods, such as lean meat, eggs and enriched cereals.

Many parents are under the impression that milk, a natural food, is all the baby needs. But milk is a poor source of iron despite its being an excellent food in other respects.

That is why infants need iron-fortified cereal or formulas. Also, medicated iron.

"The infant's weight at birth will tell a lot about how much iron it has. If under five pounds, the chances are it will develop anemia unless preventative measures are taken," says Dr. Foman.

A list of some sources for iron for infants and young children are:

Strained and Junior Foods: Commercially prepared strained and junior baby foods are combinations of the specified food and water. Frequently with additional carbohydrate starch and/or sucrose. Therefore, the concentration of iron in these special foods will usually be less per unit of weight than for the corresponding food not prepared for infants.

Infant Cereals: Slightly less than one-half ounce of dry fortified cereal (5 to 6 teaspoons) or three ounces of a cereal-milk mixture, as it is usually fed, will provide 7 to 10 milligrams of iron. Most hot cereals (farina, oatmeal, rice, grits) are not fortified with iron or are fortified at extremely low levels. But "quick" and "instant" cream of wheat are fortified with iron to approximately the same extent as dry infant cereals.

Medicinal Iron: For infants who do not receive iron-fortified foods beginning at 4 to 6 weeks of age, medicinal iron, preferably ferrous sulfate, is recommended. The dose should be enough to provide at least 6 milligrams of elemental iron. Your own physician should advise you.

Surveys show that the groups not getting the recommended levels of iron are principally infants and teenagers, especially girls starting at the age of 9, boys in the 12 to 14 group.

"These surveys revealed also that the average amount of iron in the diets of babies and children under 3 years was only about one-half of the recommended amounts. Average diets of girls from 12 years furnished less than two-thirds of the recommended amounts," Dr. Foman says. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

UDC luncheon

The Pat Cleburne Chapter, UDC, had a luncheon at the home of Mrs. John Voss in Fulton on Thursday, September 7, with Mrs. C.B. Voss as co-hostess. An arrangement of cannas centered the lace-covered table, and Mrs. Roy Taylor was welcomed as a new member. Mrs. H.C. Whitworth discussed a recent trip she had made to Switzerland for the program.

PRESSURE—Bobcat quarterback Robie Boyd, under pressure, looks for a receiver in Friday night's game against the Prescott Curly Wolves. A field goal late in the second quarter by the Bobcats was the only points scored in the game.

Hogs make too many mistakes

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles had said his Razorbacks would have to play errorless football to have a chance against the University of Southern California.

The Razorbacks made several mistakes Saturday night; the Trojans made none and the result was a 31-10 USC victory.

"Had we not made mistakes it would have been very close all the way," Broyles said. "Two interceptions, a fumble, a penalty that stopped a driver and two bombs."

Both interceptions of Joe Ferguson passes set up USC touchdowns. The fumble halted a promising drive in the second quarter. The penalty slowed the Razorbacks' march with the second-half kickoff and the two long passes led to the Trojans' first and third touchdowns.

The first half was a far cry from the high-scoring battle many had predicted. Arkansas' Andy Bolton kicked an early field goal and USC's Mike Rae kicked one late and it was 3-3 at intermission.

"We played pretty good football the first half, so there was no reason to think we would fall apart in the second half," Broyles said.

The first half included what Broyles called "one of the best goaline stands we've ever had." USC, trailing 3-0, gained a first down at the Arkansas 20 midway through the second period, but after four plays the ball was still inches shy of the double stripe.

The Razorbacks took the second half kickoff and moved from their 32 to the USC 18 before incurring a holding penalty. Bolton was wide on a field-goal attempt and four minutes later the Trojans began to take control.

First, Rae hooked up with 9.4 sprinter Edesel Garrison on a 43-yard pass play that carried to the Arkansas 16. Five plays later, Rae scored from the five.

Next, Richard Wood, a do-everything linebacker with exceptional speed, intercepted a Ferguson pass and returned it 14 yards to the Arkansas 35. Rod McNeill scored from three yards out to make it 17-3 with 2:35 left in the period.

Any dream of an Arkansas comeback died on the next two series.

On Arkansas' possession, Ferguson's pass from the USC 29 went in and out of the hands of Mike Reppond.

Then, Rae wound up and hit a streaking Lynn Swann for 50 yards. A face-mask penalty on the end of the pass and an 18-yard run by McNeill covered the remaining distance.

Rae, who Broyles said had "oodles of time" to throw, completed 18 of 24 for 269 yards. "They did a great job of pass protecting and this hurt us," Broyles said. "They took the game away from us in the third and fourth quarter after we failed to score on our first possession and they hit the deep pass."

Red Sox sweep double

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer
Eddie Kasko always has been known for his diplomacy, and he certainly won't change now that his Boston Red Sox have their biggest lead of the season in the tight four-team American League East pennant race.

"I couldn't pick out a single aspect as to why we're in front," the tactful Kasko said Sunday after the Red Sox had swept a doubleheader from Cleveland 5-1 in 12 innings and 2-0, increasing their lead to 1½ games over runnerup Baltimore.

"We've been getting good pitching for quite a while," added the Boston manager. "But if I said the pitchers were doing it, the hitters would get mad. It's been a combination of everything."

Baltimore, winner of the East championship the past three years, blanked Milwaukee 2-0 as Jim Palmer scattered seven hits for his 19th victory.

The New York Yankees, in fourth place, 2½ games back, dropped Detroit from second to third, two games behind Boston, stopping the Tigers 5-0 on Mel Stottlemyre's three-hitter.

Oakland, seeking its second straight West Division title, increased its lead to 3½ games over Chicago, trouncing the Texas Rangers 7-2 while the White Sox were losing to California 5-1.

Kansas City downed Minnesota 3-1 in the other AL game.

In the National League, Cincinnati outslugged San Francisco 8-7 in the opener of a doubleheader, but the Giants took the nightcap 8-2; San Diego and Atlanta also split, the Padres winning the first game 1-0 and the Braves taking the second game 4-1; the New York Mets edged St. Louis 3-2; Montreal battered Pittsburgh 8-2.

Bobcats win second straight game 3-0

By ALLAN FOSTER
Star Sports Writer

Hope won their second straight game 3-0 on an interception by David Huddleston and a field goal booted by Paul Bazar late in the second quarter putting Hope on top in a game full of controversial calls and penalties against Prescott Friday night.

In the third quarter Prescott began to drive and it looked as if they might score. But on fourth down and goal from the seven, Prescott attempted a field goal which was blocked by Hope's Jackie Barker.

The fourth quarter would make any Hope fan nervous just to look back at it. Ronnie Johnson got the drive going by passing 30 yards to James Langston which gave Prescott the ball at Hope's 44. An interference call enabled them to move to the 30. Four plays later it was fourth and five on the 25 with 0:05 left. A completion and run was stopped on the three yard line and the clock ran out.

Hope lived over penalties, serious mistakes and controversial calls to take their second win. Next week Hope hosts Arkadelphia in a 7AA Conference battle.

Upsets scored in SWC football

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles and Rice Coach Al Conover are glad they don't have to play again this week for different reasons.

Southern California burst Arkansas' national championship bubble Saturday night with a thorough 31-10 victory while Rice outlasted Houston 14-13 to give Conover a victory in his debut as Owl coach.

In the only other game involving a SWC team, the Texas Aggies under new mentor Emory Bellard rolled over Wichita State 36-13.

"Our kids are so high it will take them a week to get down," said Conover of the victory over cross-town rival

Houston. "My head is not down, my team's heads are not down," said Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles after the slaughter. "They were a pretty darn good football team all the way."

Arkansas, which had gone into the game fourth-ranked and was the pre-season pick in the Southwest Conference football chase, hosts Oklahoma State at Little Rock Sept. 23.

Rice forged its victory on touchdown passes of 30 and five yards to Edwin Collins and the running of freshman John Coleman, who collected 84 yards on 24 carries.

Conover said "I think those kids will be hard to beat now as they're out of their minds."

Dodgers No. 2?

By TOM EMORY
Associated Press Sports Writer
The top spot in the National League West is pretty far out of sight for the Los Angeles Dodgers, but No. 2 isn't that far away and Frank Robinson thinks it's where the team soon will be.

"We have plenty of time to catch up with Houston," Robinson said Sunday, after the Dodgers beat the Astros 3-2. "It's great any time you can come from behind like that."

The Dodgers are 9½ games behind division-leading Cincinnati but Houston is just two games up on them. Los Angeles came from behind with three runs in the eighth inning to beat the Astros.

Manny Mota led off with a single and Willie Davis followed with a double that chased Astro starter Dave Roberts, who had pitched four-hit ball for seven innings. When Fred Gladding came in, he was greeted by Wes Parker's single to score a run before Robinson singled to tie the game 2-2. Steve Garvey then laid down a bunt which he beat out for a single, but Gladding threw the ball wide to first and the winning run scored.

The Dodgers' winner was Ron Perranoski, a veteran reliever released by Detroit in mid-season.

In other NL games, Chicago beat Philadelphia 5-3, Montreal topped Pittsburgh 8-2, New York edged St. Louis 3-2. Cincinnati beat San Francisco 8-7 in the first game of a doubleheader. The Giants won the second game 8-2. San Diego shut out Atlanta 1-0 in Game No. 1 of their twinbill but the Braves came back for a 4-1 victory in the second.

Gale Sayers retires

CHICAGO (AP) — Gale Sayers, the Kansas Comet who rewrote National Football League ball-carrying records in his early years with the Chicago Bears and before that those of the Big Eight Conference, retired Sunday.

He retired with the grace quite expectable in a man who bore his success and acclaim with modesty, and the afflictions that robbed him of speed and skills with fortitude and futile determination to overcome them.

He said nothing of his achievements in the past: twice All-American at Kansas, Rookie of the Year with the Bears in 1965, five times All-NFL, three times NFL leading rusher, three times Pro Bowl most valuable player, eight NFL records, selection on the all-time all-pro team.

There was no allusion to the widely held belief that Sayers, 28, the 6-foot, 190-pounder who ran the 100 in 9.7 seconds in his heyday was the greatest ball-carrying halfback ever.

There was no mention of the grinding tackle by Kermit Alexander, San Francisco defensive back in 1968, that wrecked his right knee and began the erosion of the blinding speed, the change-of-pace, the stutter-step and the astonishing change of direction that terrorized NFL defenses for five years.

Sayers said simply:

"It's with a great deal of reluctance I am announcing my retirement. From high school, through college at Kansas and on to the Bears, football has been my life. It has given me many opportunities that now assure my future."

"It brought me many new friends, and I want to thank them for staying by me and believing in me these past two years."

He spoke not of the heatbreak of mostly riding the bench since injury to his left knee in a pre-season game in 1970. He played in only two games in each of the 1970 and 1971 seasons and only briefly and ineffectively.

Russia awarded Olympic gold

MUNICH (AP) — The International Olympic Committee left Russia in possession of the basketball gold medal today but held open a remote chance that the U.S. protest could be upheld in February. The IOC also barred 11 Pakistani field hockey players from the Olympics for life — just as it had American dashmen Vince Matthews and Wayne Collett — for disrespectful behavior on the victory stand.

An IOC spokesman said the United States had been asked for a written statement of its protest against Russia's 51-50 victory, gained with a basket sunk in extra seconds tacked on by officials at the end of the game.

He said the protest would be studied at the IOC's next meeting at Lausanne, Switzerland, but he added the chance that it would be upheld was remote.

It was the first time in history that the United States had lost an Olympic basketball game. The players voted not to accept the silver medal. The Russians and the third-place Cubans showed up for the medal presentation and the crowd booed when officials bearing the medals stood for a minute or so before the vacant No. 2 podium.

competence on the part of U.S. track officials but of noncooperation and schedule mis-handling by Olympic organizers.

But it all ends up as one rather large moot point. What stands out, among other things, is that, after Sunday's competition, the medals race went to the Soviet Union, with a total of 99, including 50 golds. The United States came in second with 33 golds, 30 silvers and 30 bronzes for 93 medals. East Germany was next with 66 medals, 20 of them gold.

The basketball game had all the intrigue and confusion of a Russian-American spy encounter.

Loss of basketball game is ultimate blow to U.S.

MUNICH (AP) — "They've been trying to rook the Americans in the Olympics and they've finally done it!" United States basketball star Kevin Joyce fumed.

Whether the word "rooked" is exactly proper is up for grabs—about as much, it seems as the we-won, they-won basketball game against the Soviet Union which, as far as the United States is concerned, will somehow symbolize these 20th Summer Games.

Technically, although the Russians had already been awarded the gold medal, the outcome of the basketball game—which we won 50-49, then they won 51-50—was still in doubt this morning as the International Olympic Committee reviewed a U.S. protest, only hours before the closing ceremonies commenced.

The U.S. loss of the basketball game—the first in 64 contests since the American-born sport was introduced to the Olympics in the 1936 Berlin Games—was the ultimate blow to the U.S. spirit which had taken a roller coaster ride since these Games began here Aug. 26.

There were, of course, moments of incredible elation. The magnificent Mark Spitz with his seven gold medals led the way as America's aquaducks dominated the swimming.

And there was Sunday's final track-and-field competition, when Larry Black, Robert Taylor, Gerald Tinker and Eddie Hart blazed America to victory in the 400-meter relays and when Frank Shorter, a Munich-born Yale graduate, became the first U.S. winner of the marathon in 64 years.

But as the thoughts of glory faded away, names like Rick DeMont, Vince Matthews and Wayne Collett will linger, along with other distasteful memories.

It was DeMont, a 16-year-old swimmer from San Rafael, Calif., who took a medication containing Ephedrine to combat his asthma—and was deprived of the gold medal he'd won in the 400-meter freestyle because U.S. team officials neglected to tell him to change medications since Ephedrine was banned by the IOC.

It was Matthews and Collett, gold and silver medalists in the 400-meter dash, who breached Olympic decorum on the victory stand, chatting and relaxing during the playing of the national anthem, an action which brought out the wrath of the IOC, which barred them from the rest of the Games—and thus kayoed America's entry in the 1,600-meter relays.

There were lesser controversies, too. Some, particularly U.S. boxing Coach Bobby Lewis, felt America's poor showing in the ring—just one gold and three bronzes—was the result of judges who voted not on what they saw but on how their politics ran.

And when Hart and Rey Robinson showed up too late for their qualifying heats in the 100-meter dash, some felt it was the result not of in-

Johnny Unitas is back on the beam

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Old Johnny U. is back on the beam. That could mean the Baltimore Colts again will be contenders in the National Football League race that starts next Sunday.

Johnny U., as veteran 39-year-old Johnny Unitas is called, sparked the Colts to a 20-13 victory over the Denver Broncos in one of five exhibition games Sunday that ended the NFL preseason campaign.

Unitas' passing and signal calling accounted for two first half touchdowns that gave the Colts a 20-10 lead at intermission. The Colt defense took over in the last two quarters.

Don McCafferty, the Baltimore coach, was happy with Unitas and his defensive stalwarts. "Now we're looking forward to next week. I'm glad the preseason is over."

The Colts open at home against St. Louis. In the other openers next Sunday, Miami is at Kansas City, Atlanta at Chicago, Cincinnati at New England, Green Bay at Cleveland, Houston at Denver, New Orleans at Los Angeles, New York Giants at Detroit, Oakland at Pittsburgh, New York Jets at Buffalo, Philadelphia at Dallas and San Diego at San Francisco. Washington plays at Minnesota a week from tonight in the first Monday night clash of the regular season.

The Giants downed Cleveland 28-21, New England tripped Detroit 34-30, Miami shaded Minnesota 21-19 while Houston and New Orleans tied 14-14 in the other games on the final day of the exhibition campaign.

In Saturday night action, Green Bay blanked Kansas City 20-0, Atlanta routed Cincinnati 44-14, Dallas overcame Oakland 16-10, St. Louis humbled Chicago 33-14, Washington and Pittsburgh tied 10-10 while the New York Jets rallied to deadlock San Diego 20-20.

Last Friday night, in the opening games of the last preseason weekend, San Francisco shaded Los Angeles 17-14 and Buffalo scored by 34-17 over Philadelphia.

Jim Plunkett passed for three touchdowns and Carl Garrett ran for two more in leading the Patriots over the Lions. The Dolphins overcame a 12-point Minnesota lead to edge the Vikings on Mercury Morris' diving touchdown on fourth down from the six-yard line with 52 seconds left.

A 10-yard TD end run by Ward Walsh, also with 52 seconds left, gained the Oilers their tie with the Saints.

Charlie Evans scored all four of the New York touchdowns as the Giants downed the Browns.

The end of the exhibition season also marked the retirement of Gale Sayers of the Chicago Bears considered one of the best halfbacks ever to carry a football.

He fumbled twice against the Cardinals Saturday night and on Sunday said "it's with a great deal of reluctance I am announcing my retirement."

Conference statistics

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It was an Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference sweep against outside opposition Saturday.

The closest call came at Emporia, Kan., where Craig Williams' 22-yard field goal with 30 seconds to play lifted Arkansas Tech to a 10-7 victory.

In other games, Ouachita beat Bishop 22-17, Southern State downed Southeast Oklahoma 14-7 and Harding blitzed Austin 58-10.

Emporia drove 60 yards for a touchdown by quarterback Craig Watson on a three-yard keeper and led Tech 7-0.

But Bennie Shepherd broke for 61 yards and a TD on a draw play to tie the score.

At Searcy, Alan Dixon carried eight times for 119 yards, including touchdown runs of 25 and 13 yards.

A 67-yard punt return by David Lumpkin, a 53-yard run by Rick Sammons and a Harding record 51-yard field goal by Tom Ed Gooden accounted for other Bison scores.

Johnny Baker's three yard touchdown run proved to be the decisive margin in Ouachita's triumph at Arkadelphia.

Bruce Efrid kicked a 43-yard field goal for the Tigers and Danny Winston ran 50 yards on a punt return for an OBU score.

Richard Bryant kicked a 43-yard field goal for Bishop and scored a TD on a 19-yard run. A 42-yard pass play from Harmon Jordan to William Sullivan accounted for the other Bishop touchdown.

Mike Carroll threw to Danny Deffenbaugh on a 32-yard TD play for Ouachita.

Roy McLemore's 30-yard TD run gave Southern victory over SE Oklahoma. Phil Brooks sneaked one yard for the other Mulierider touchdown. Dusty Martin returned a fumble 60 yards for the Oklahoma touch-

Weaver captures Southern Open

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Atlanta DeWitt Weaver captured the $100,000 Southern Open Golf Tournament Sunday, edging Chuck Courtney on the first hole of a sudden death playoff.

Courtney charged to within one stroke of Weaver at the 17th green, coming away with a birdie after the leader settled for a bogey.

But while Courtney played it safe thinking he was fighting for second place at the 18th green, Weaver—playing behind him—was experiencing near disaster on the tee of No. 18.

Weaver's final tee shot hooked sharply out of play. Already facing one penalty stroke, he teed off again and the drive hooked in the same direction. The shot struck a tree limb, however, and fell into fair play.

Weaver took a double bogey seven on the finishing hole, following Courtney, who had chipped past the flag and then three-putted for a bogey.

Both finished regulation play with four-round totals of 276. Weaver won the playoff hole with a par four—and the $20,000 first prize—and described the victory as "a bigger thrill than winning the U.S. Match Play championship last year."

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Supreme Court today reversed a jury award of $27,000 to a White County couple for land taken by the state Highway Commission in an eminent domain proceeding.

The White County Circuit Court jury had awarded Mr. and Mrs. O.A. Allen the amount for 11.74 acres of land taken in connection with highway construction near Beebe.

The Allens had estimated their just compensation at $33,400 while an appraiser testifying in their behalf, Terrill Huff, estimated damages at $22,298. Highway Department appraisers had estimated just compensation at almost $13,000.

The Supreme Court, sending the case back for another trial, said Allen and Huff employed the wrong method in arriving at their estimate of the market

SOUTHLAND CONFERENCE TEAMS RACE FOR TOP

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Co-favorites McNeese State and Louisiana Tech are on a collision course for the top rung of the ladder in the Southland Conference football race.

Both teams collected conference victories Saturday although it wasn't easy in either case.

Louisiana Tech had to drive 88 yards in the third quarter to dump Southwestern Louisiana 7-0. Glen Berteau, a reserve tailback, was the shining light. He ripped off 73 yards in seven carries, closing with 139 yards for the game.

McNeese quarterback Greg Davis refused to panic with his team trailing 0-10 and scored two touchdowns in a 27-17 victory over Arkansas State. McNeese State is making its debut in the conference.

value of the land involved. The court said they based their opinions on the aggregate of the estimated number and value of the building plots into which the acreage could be divided and eventually sold. Justice J. Fred Jones said this procedure had been condemned in previous court decisions.

He suggested their opinions should have been based on the open market value of the entire tract on the date of taking by the Highway Commission if sold for its highest and best use as future residential building sites.

In another case, the court rejected the appeal of the rape conviction of Paul Fleschner in 1963 in Pulaski County Circuit Court. Circuit Court Judge William J. Kirby refused to vacate the conviction on Fleschner's contention that testimony at an evidentiary hearing showed that he was unable to adequately defend himself at the time of his trial because he was under the influence of narcotic drugs.

The Supreme Court, in an opinion by Justice Frank Holt, observed that before his trial, Fleschner was found to be legally sane and able to stand trial by State Hospital officials.

Fleschner had testified at his trial that he had used narcotics for 30 years, according to the Supreme Court.

Police still search for murderers of 8 persons

CHRISTIANSTED, St. Croix, V.I. (AP) — Five men charged with murdering eight persons during a robbery at the posh Fountain Valley Golf Course still are on the run as police keep a heavy guard on two others jailed in the killings. Bench warrants for the five fugitives were issued late Sunday by Judge Warren H. Young of U.S. District Court, Atty. Gen. Ronald Tonkin said.

Gov. Melvin H. Evans identified the five as Warren Ballentine, Ismael Labeet, Raphael Joseph, a man identified only as Sanchez and another identified only as "Pepe" or "Pablo."

"The men being sought are armed and should be considered dangerous," Tonkin said, reading from a statement by Evans.

Two others charged in the slayings — Meral Smith and Beaumont Gereau — have been jailed on the neighboring island of St. Thomas, where they were taken following their arrests Saturday night.

Smith, 21, of Estate Grove Place, St. Croix, and Gereau, 23, of St. Thomas, were arraigned in secret shortly after their arrests, and Municipal Judge John Marsh set bond at "more than $1 million," according to a statement issued by the governor's office Saturday night.

However, Evans said Sunday night said charges against all seven had been filed in U.S. District Court for the Virgin Islands by acting U.S. Atty. Frederick Watts and Young set bail at $200,000 each.

Tonkin's meeting with the press on the terrace of the club — site of four of the eight killings last Wednesday — squelched rumors of the possibility of more arrests Sunday.

Boyleing it down

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Fire fighting has now replaced mining as the most dangerous U.S. profession. Last year 211 firemen were killed and 38,383 injured while on duty thus raising the industry's mortality rate to 115 for every 100,000 firemen.

The long tusks of the walrus aren't used only to fight rivals or scare away enemies. They make handy tools to gouge up clams from the floor of the sea.

When it comes to wheels, no other country yet comes near the United States. With only six per cent of the world's population, it has 49.5 per cent of its motor vehicles. California alone has more cars than Europe and Asia combined. We're doing pretty well in bicycles, too. About 67 million Americans own them.

As recently as half a century ago, labor was fighting an uphill battle to get the standard work week cut to five days. Now employees of more than 300 firms are working a four-day week of 40 hours or less.

Modern war leaves vast scars on the land as well as in the spirit of man. Scientists estimate that years of heavy aerial bombardment have left more than 26 million craters in the soil and cities of Indochina. The area of the craters is the equivalent of 400,000 acres.

Quotable notables: "I remember once I was on location in a snowbound mountain resort. It was so cold I almost got married." — Actress Shelley Winters.

Trunabout: In the New Hebrides, according to the National Geographic Society, the native islanders scold their children by saying, "Be good, or the white man will get you!"

Scarcity makes value: During the reign of King Edward III of England, the iron pots and pans in the royal palace were so highly valued they were classified among the crown jewels.

An unfair trade: It is said that the white man gave the Indians tuberculosis and fire-water and that the Indian got even by giving the white man the tobacco habit. But the Indians also taught the white man to grow such new food crops as corn, white potatoes and sweet potatoes, kidney beans, peanuts, lima beans, tomatoes, peppers, squashes and pumpkins, avocados, cocoa, and pineapples.

McGovern: Trouble in the camp

WASHINGTON (AP) — When political campaign organizations are functioning smoothly, they don't show. And Sen. George McGovern's has been showing.

That is why the McGovern headquarters is drawing so much attention, despite the insistence of the Democratic presidential nominee and his lieutenants that matters of staff and organization don't interest the voters.

His has been a troubled command post since shortly after he won the nomination.

McGovern himself once reprimanded his staff, and announced that he had done so, because an unidentified aide asserted that campaign Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien would be only a figurehead with no real responsibilities.

McGovern said organizational problems are of little interest to anyone but political writers. "For months they talked about how brilliant our organization was," he said. "Now they're saying how clumsy we are."

In the days of his uphill climb through the presidential primaries to the nomination, McGovern's organization did perform brilliantly. It also performed quietly.

That has not been the case of late. Disputes within the McGovern political shop have been breaking out in public.

O'Brien himself hinted he might quit as campaign chairman unless something was done to improve what he considered poor coordination, communication and control.

He has since pronounced himself satisfied with the organization and theme of the campaign.

But soon after that problem was resolved, Rep. Frank Thompson of New Jersey resigned as director of the campaign voter-registration drive after a dispute with campaign Manager Gary Hart over control and finances.

Then came the case of Gordon Weil, executive assistant to McGovern and executive director of the campaign, who left the headquarters one day after giving the impression he would not be back, refused to confirm or deny reports he was quitting, and announced a day later that he was staying.

"Speculation about internal campaign matters is of no importance to the voter, nor should it be," Weil said.

But a presidential campaign is part of the process that shapes not only elections, but administrations. The men around a candidate during his campaign are, presumably, men who would play key roles in his administration.

One top McGovern aide acknowledged there is tension within the organization, and sensitivity on the part of early McGovern men as Democratic politicians who earlier had sided with other candidates move into the campaign.

There is nothing unusual about that; it is a strain that affect any national campaign. What is unusual is the amount of open controversy it has generated.

Democrat Party closed shop, backs ticket

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The last major state Democratic party forum of this political season closed shop here Saturday with displays of allegiance with the national ticket.

The combination affair involved the two-day party convention and the campaign visit by Sargent Shriver, the presidential nominee.

The Republican party, which is to hold its own state convention next Saturday in North Little Rock, seldom was mentioned, never was genuinely attacked by state Democrats.

This, in the eyes of observers, reflected the feeling that most state Democratic nominees are assured of election Nov. 7.

One wag commented, "They treated the Republicans like they were invisible."

Very visible was Shriver, however, who spoke Friday night to about 450 persons at a $15-per-person Democratic banquet, then addressed the state convention Saturday morning.

He attacked the GOP as the party of privilege and favoritism and called President Nixon's Southern strategy "warmed-over Reconstruction."

Television network to broadcast in Spanish

NEW YORK (AP) — "Buenas tardes. Estas son las noticias de hoy desde La Red Internacional en Español." In 1974, this may be the way several million Americans hear the start of the nightly news on a television network with the improbable name of SIN.

That's the acronym for the New York-based Spanish International Network, whose stations broadcast each day entirely in Spanish.

SIN, formed 10 years ago, is quietly on its way to becoming a major force in this nation's rapidly expanding Spanish-language broadcast market, which already involves more than 250 radio and television stations around the country.

The network now owns five UHF television stations in key areas of heavy Cuban, Puerto Rican and Mexican-American population—New York, Miami, San Antonio, Tex., and Los Angeles and Fresno in California. And it's trying to open another one in Corpus Christi, Tex.

SIN also had 13 affiliates, four of them in Mexico along the California and Texas borders, according to Boston-born Rene Anselmo, president of SIN. He says he's aiming for 20 affiliates in all.

But right now, SIN isn't yet a network in the sense of an NBC or ABC. Its shows aren't controlled or sent from a New York headquarters, although SIN stations can link up by phone line for simultaneous transmission from one point. Usually, most of its shows are taped at any of the five SIN-owned stations, duplicated, then sent to the other stations for airing at times those points feel are best.

Anselmo is waiting for Western Union to get federal clearance for a domestic satellite that may be sent aloft in 1974. If he and the company agree on terms, SIN's network broadcasting would come from one point, with its stations joined electronically from space instead of via conventional land lines.

He says at that point, SIN's programming basically would be a Spanish-language miniversion of what major U.S. networks now offer. But all shows would be specifically tailored for the Spanish-Speaking, and include major Latin sports events rarely seen on U.S. television—soccer, bullfighting and the like.

Will any SIN broadcasting be in English?

"No, Anselmo says. 'The one thing we do offer to the Spanish community is their own station. Spanish-speaking people feel they should have their own station and their own language and I agree.'

Doesn't the different variety of Spanish spoken in Miami and Los Angeles pose a minor language problem for SIN?

"You have to make compromises to regionalisms, but there's standard broadcast Spanish, just as there's broadcast English," he says. "It's like someone speaking in English from Boston. He may sound funny to people on the West Coast, but they'll understand it."

Class for teachers to begin

A National Science Foundation in-service class for secondary school teachers of mathematics will begin tomorrow (Tuesday) at the science building at Hope High School. Time for the class is 6-9 p.m. The course to be offered is "Content and Methods in Teaching General Mathematics."

Each class will have 16 meetings of three hours each; upon completion of the course, participants will receive three semester hours of credit.

This class is being offered by the department of mathematics at the University of Arkansas and is a part of a Comprehensive Program for Secondary School Teachers of Mathematics in Arkansas which is being funded by a $202,000 Grant from the National Science Foundation with a commitment for three additional years of funding.

The instruction for the class is Robert Simmons, of Hope.

Each participant will receive a tuition grant and a travel allowance. The following teachers are participating in the in-service class: Sarah Allbritton of Ashdown, William E. Beck of Wilton, Ruth Buchanan, James Howard Bullock, and Harrel Dickerson, all of Prescott, Claudia M. Griffin of Fulton, William H. Hendricks of Texarkana, Herman D. Johnson of Washington, Benny C. Mitchell of Blevins, Bettye J. Moore of Ashdown, George D. Straughter of Hope, Ronald E. Sweat of McCaskill and Larry E. Witherspoon of Texarkana.

Three Americans are working with Viet Cong in Vietnam

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Three Americans have been seen serving with the Viet Cong for at least two years, military sources report. U.S. military intelligence knows them as Pork Chop, Salt and Pepper.

The men are believed to be deserters but could be prisoners of war who defected, the sources say.

Although seen from a distance by Americans and several times close at hand by Vietnamese villagers, they have eluded capture and have not been identified.

Salt and Pepper work together in Quang Ngai Province 70 to 90 miles south of Da Nang. Salt is white, Pepper black.

Pork Chop, a blond 6-footer, works a little farther south in Binh Dinh Province. He is said to have bad burn scars on his face and wears bushy sideburns to obscure them.

"They are members of small Viet Cong units, and as far as we can tell they enjoy no special privileges," one intelligence source said. "We are certain they do not command their units."

Investigators say Pork Chop appears the most active and daring of the three. Several times he has flagged down South Vietnamese military vehicles and hijacked them at gunpoint.

He also is credited with having made off with two American armored personnel carriers from a vehicle park, hitching one to the other.

All three of the men are reported to have spent "leaves" in Da Nang, hitching rides into the city virtually under the noses of U.S. and South Vietnamese military police. Two of them were said to have been spotted riding a motorbike in the city last Christmas.

Villagers say the Viet Cong display the Americans in remote villages and tell the people:

"Look at these American comrades. We offer them only a life of hardship and struggle and yet they choose to fight at our side. They are living proof that our cause is just and soon will triumph."

A small U.S. military intelligence team at Da Nang is trying to track down the three men.

A reward for information about them has been suggested, but one source said officials were reluctant to do this for fear of endangering other Americans.

Reports of Westerners serving or traveling with Communist field units have cropped up frequently during the Vietnam War. The closest the Americans ever came to pinning down such a report was in 1969 when a U.S. Marine patrol shot at and apparently wounded a young armed American with a Viet Cong squad near Da Nang.

Mike Kelly is guest speaker at Rotary

"Since no man is an island, every change must be considered for its total effect," Mike Kelly told the Hope Rotary Club in reference to the Urban Renewal work being planned and executed in Hope, when he spoke at the club's weekly luncheon meeting Friday, September 8, at the Town and Country.

Rotarian Comer Boyett made arrangements for the speaker to appear and introduced him. Mr. Kelly told the group that all the changes wouldn't be satisfactory to everyone, but "in total this is for the ultimate good of all." The aim is to remove the old and provide for the new with safety and improved environment always kept in mind. He discussed the projected plans and improvements and said the cost of the project would be over $2 million with the city's part to be $591,000.

Another guest, Guy Grigg, showed films of the downtown area of Hope as it is today and the proposed plans for improvement. The color slides also showed scenes from Denison, Tex., where similar work has been completed. Tom Hodges, city planner, expects to have down-town plans for Hope completed by September 25, it was reported.

President Bob Roberts welcomed the members and guests, including new City Manager Gerald Keith, who is moving his Rotary membership from Taylor, Tex., a visiting Rotarian, Percy Malone of Arkadelphia, a guest, Mrs. Vernon Wickliffe, and the guest speakers. Before the program, Rotarian Albert Graves read a short essay, "Am I A True Rotarian?" After the meeting, President Roberts called a short board meeting.

H-A clinic: Profile of a junkie

Editor's Note — About a hundred young people a day troop into the Haight Ashbury street clinic for some sort of treatment for their drug addiction. The following article on the clinic gives a profile of the junkie in the San Francisco area as put together by the clinic.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bluntly, the clinic counsellor hurls the question at the young heroin addict.

"How many Cadillacs do you think you have in your arm?"

He intends a shock effect, to reinforce one of the motivations that pulls many addicts to the clinic — the desire to shed the anxiety and sweat of having to earn or steal or somehow raise the huge income to pay for their habit.

And the counsellor can spell out what the average addict, here in the San Francisco area at least, could get instead for the dollars he shoots into his arm each year:

A new Porsche Model 914 sports car...12 months rent on a luxury apartment on Twin Peaks...all expenses of a three-week vacation in the Mediterranean...a complete stereo set (Marantz amplifier, A.R. turntable, Bose speakers)...100 long-playing records...a complete wardrobe including formal clothes and sportswear... It all totals more than $16,000 a year, roughly $50 a day.

The scene is the Haight-Ashbury Free Medical Clinic, the first in the nation, which is not only treating addicts but is pioneering research to depict the profile of hard-drug addicts, who they are, where they come from, what they say a "fix" does for them, and what probably finally happens to junkies over the years.

Haight-Ashbury is also the first free or street clinic to receive federal funds to operate a drug treatment project, to the tune of $366,000 the first year from the National Institute of Mental Health, with the clinic required to add 10 per cent more.

"We can reach these people," says Dr. George R. Gay, director of the Drug Detoxification, Rehabilitation and After Care Project, as it is formally known at the clinic's totally informal operations in a few old, rambling but highly accessible buildings near the intersection of Haight and Ashbury Streets in the western part of San Francisco. Dr. Gay, 41, a former pediatric anesthesiologist, is also associate director of the Haight clinic started by Dr. David E. Smith.

"We see about 100 kids a day, most of them hooked on heroin, but 15 per cent or more are taking multiple drugs, cocaine or barbiturates in addition to their smack," says Dr. Gay, an amiable bearded man who dresses in "hippie" style, beads cap and all, the better to establish easy communication with his young clientele.

"We have real access to these people. If they're not ready really to try treatment, we say, 'Okay, there's our soup kitchen. Come back when you're ready.' They come because friends tell them they can expect sympathetic, non-judgmental aid, no lectures."

About three-quarters are white, 14 per cent black, eight per cent Mexican-American. Three-quarters are male, but the percentage of females has been rising lately. So has the proportion of middle-class junkies, and even more the percentage of "blue-collar" boys and girls. And a wave of new G.I. junkies is appearing, too.

The average age is 23.3 years. Most become hooked between ages 15 and 25, with a peak now in this area at 20, says Dr. John Newmeyer, a young and enthusiastic social psychologist out of Harvard whose epidemiological studies are contributing to understanding how the addict behaves, and why, and how he got started in the first place.

The vast majority got turned on from the influence of friends, mostly same-age friends, Dr. Newmeyer finds, with only small numbers brought in directly by dealers in drugs.

Friends and relatives will divert 10,000 to become "clean" after an average of a year of addiction. Their cure will be monetarily free, but before cure they will have cost society $60 million.

District 16 Nurses meet

District 16 of the American Nurses Association met at the Memorial Hospital last Thursday night.

Mrs. Ann Johnson M.T. presented a lecture on "The Importance of Rhogam," the injection given to Rh-negative mothers following delivery or miscarriages.

Rhogam has only been available the past four to five years and has greatly reduced the occurrence of hemolytic disease of the newborn and fetal deaths.

Mrs. Linda Johnson M.T. assisted in the discussion and answering of questions.

Refreshments of coffee and cookies were served. During this time, plans were being made to have the meeting in a different town each month.

Guess what, Mom? We're out of hot water.

At Arkansas Power & Light, we think electric water heating is the best way to keep your family in plenty of hot water.

The electric water heater. It's clean. It's quiet. And there's no pilot to light and relight. Plus, there's no vent, so you can put it under the kitchen cabinets, in the attic, the garage, the bedroom closet or just about anywhere that the other kind won't go.

And you'll discover that there's a type and size just right to meet your family's hot water needs.

Call your plumber, dealer or contractor about all the details on electric water heating. We'll all be glad to help.

Where is good arthritis care?

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Your articles are most helpful and informative. One in particular stressed getting adequate medical care for arthritis. Dr. Lamb, you have no idea how difficult that is. Too many doctors feel that it is just one of those chronic problems and you have to make the best of it. Even the state medical school can be a problem. I was told nothing could be done for me and eventually I would be paralyzed. One arm and hand were almost paralyzed at that time. X rays show that I also have arthritis in the spine and neck and the hips are also affected.

I do special typing for a psychiatrist and finally told him I would not be able to continue to, even at a reduced speed because of my arthritis. He sent me to physical therapy and it has revolutionized my life. Of course I still have trouble, but it has helped a great deal. So, doctor, it's all in the "luck" one has in getting the right doctor. In large areas, there are specialists who concern themselves only with arthritis, but in most of our small towns our busy doctors just don't have time to devote to us arthritics.

Dear Reader—Yes, I do know how difficult it is. There is a lot that can be done for arthritis and much of it has to be directed toward learning proper living habits. Physiotherapy, which includes proper exercises, is an important part of the treatment in keeping full use of the body. It's true that in many small towns doctors just don't have the time to deal with such complex, time consuming problems. Also a lot of equipment is expensive and support treatment, such as physiotherapy, isn't always available either. Some readers have told me I'm unreasonable in telling them they should go to a center or location where a rheumatologist is located. Considering the importance of arthritis, I don't think so. The person with rheumatoid arthritis, characterized by swelling, particularly needs help.

The Arthritis Foundation was formed to try to help resolve some of the problems of the type your letter describes. You live near Denver and a chapter of the Arthritis Foundation is located there. You could address your letter to the Rocky Mountain Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation, Denver, Colo. 80204. In large cities patients can sometimes find the state or regional chapter of the Arthritis Foundation listed in the telephone book. To find the nearest rheumatologist (specialist in arthritis) you

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "We watched a rubber bridge game the other day with fair players involved. There were plenty of mistakes made as you would expect but there were a great many hands that should interest our readers."

Jim: "What about this one? A club lead would beat four hearts quickly and surely. What happened after West opened a diamond?"

Oswald: "Declarer started with a rush. He cashed dummy's ace and king of diamonds to discard a club loser. Then he played ace-king and six of spades."

Jim: "Looks like a pretty good start."

Oswald: "It was a pretty good start but it wasn't quite good enough. West ruffed with the eight of hearts and declarer had to use dummy's 10 to overruff."

"A trump from dummy produced the three from East, the jack from South and the ace from West. West cashed his ace of clubs and led a low diamond. East ruffed with the king and led his last spade, whereupon West set the hand by ruffing with his nine of trumps."

Jim: "A brilliant series of defensive plays. I can't really blame South for his line of play. East and West just came up with some real razzle-dazzle defense."

Permits for duck blinds to be issued for Millwood

Permits for duck blind locations on areas open to hunting at most of the lakes operated by the Tulsa District of the Army Engineer, including Millwood, will be issued beginning Sept. 29 and continuing through the waterfowl season, Col. William E. Read, District Engineer, announced today.

Exceptions to the late September date are two lakes where rivalry for sites is intense—Fort Gibson and Hulah—and where persons may register to be eligible for public drawings for blinds between Sept. 11 and the date of the drawings. The Hulah drawing will be held at 1:00 p.m. on Sept. 29, and the Fort Gibson drawing at 9:00 a.m. on Sept. 30. Applicants do not have to be present at the drawings to obtain a blind permit.

Hunters planning to build duck blinds on public lakes managed by the Engineers in Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas are required by federal regulations to obtain a permit from the Corps of Engineers. Under procedures established by the Corps and the Kansas Forestry, Fish and Game Commission, permits are not required on the six lakes operated by the Tulsa District in Kansas.

Each person applying for a permit or registering for the drawings must show a current hunting license with current duck stamp permit.

Beginning Sept. 29, permits for blinds will be issued on a first-come first-served basis at project offices at Keystone, Heyburn, Tenkiller Ferry, Oologah, Eufaula, Canton, Fort Supply, Pine Creek, Broken Bow and Wister in Oklahoma; Texoma on the Oklahoma-Texas border; Pat Mayse in Texas; Millwood in Arkansas; and for areas on the navigation system. Permits for blinds on hunting areas below Robert S.

Kerr Lock and Dam may be obtained at the Kerr resident office near Sallisaw, while permits for areas along the upper end—from Webbers Falls Lake to the head of navigation—may be obtained at the Webbers Falls project office near Webbers Falls.

Office hours for issuing the permits will be from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, and from 8 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturdays at all project offices except Tenkiller Ferry, which will not be open Saturdays. After Oct. 15, permits will be issued only during office hours, Monday through Friday. Permits will not be issued on legal holidays.

Office hours for registration for drawings at Hulah and Fort Gibson (starting Sept. 11) will be from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, and from 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon on Saturdays at Hulah; and from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. Saturdays and Sundays at Fort Gibson. If any sites remain after the drawing, they will be issued on a first-come first-served basis during office hours on weekdays.

Engineer's rules state that assigned sites which do not have blinds constructed on them at the opening of the waterfowl season will be reassigned. Permittees are asked to remove their blinds no later than two weeks after the end of the waterfowl season.

Most of the government-owned lands adjacent to the lakes are open for public hunting except for public parks, developed recreational areas, areas around the dams, and on game refuges. The timbered cutoff loops and portions of the wildlife management areas along the Arkansas and Verdigris Rivers in Oklahoma are also open to public hunting.

Col. Read said much of the land open to hunting is under grazing or agricultural leases and asked that hunters be careful to avoid shooting cattle and other farm animals. He also asked that hunters close the gates immediately after entering or leaving a hunting area.

Ace didn't get excited after fifth MIG kill

HONOLULU (AP) — Scoring his fifth MIG kill to join an elite club of U.S. air aces brought a brief burst of pride to Capt. Charles D. DeBellevue, but he says he was too busy at the time to dwell on the accomplishment.

"The MIG I shot down had a friend up there, and we didn't get a chance to get too excited. We were too busy trying to keep him from getting one of us," said the 27-year-old weapons system operator, the first "back-seater" since World War I to score the five kills needed to become an ace.

DeBellevue of Lafayette, La., was commander of a F4D Phantom fighter piloted by Capt. John M. Madden Jr. when they fired a heat-seeking Sidewinder missile to knock a MIG19 out of the sky near Hanoi Saturday.

DeBellevue flew here from Udorn Royal Thai Air Force Base Sunday and was awarded the Air Force Cross, the service's second highest medal for valor in combat, by Lt. Gen. Timothy F. O'Keefe.

He also received the Distinguished Flying Cross, with two oak leaf clusters, and the Silver Star, with two oak leaf clusters.

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Herbert Stein is absolutely correct. Herbert Stein is terribly wrong.

Stein the economist — he is chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers — is factually accurate in saying that the average worker's ability to buy food has increased in the past year.

But as a politician — he doesn't claim to be one, but in an election year the public gratuitously applies the label — he wins no votes by, in effect, telling food buyers they are better off than they realize.

This may be so, but the timing of his reminder is terrible, coming as it did on the very same day that government figures showed meat prices to be 11.6 per cent higher than a year ago.

Nothing is more sensitive in households than the handling of money, especially food money. Although the tradition is changing, it is still the man who earns it and the woman who spends it, and neither understands the other.

And so, the President's chief economic aide is now an intruder in millions of households, the catalyst that explodes the smoldering suspicions that wage earner and food buyer hold against each other.

The facts are these: —American families spend a lower percentage of their disposable income on food than they did a year ago. This has been the case year after year since the end of World War II.

Twenty years ago in 1952 the American family spent 23 per cent of take-home pay on food. The percentage fell to 20.7 in 1957, to 19.3 in 1962, to 17.4 in 1967, to 15.8 last year. It continues to fall.

As Stein noted in his address last Friday to the American Political Science Foundation, the ability to buy food — or, to

New image for Miss America

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Terry Anne Meeuwsen, Miss America 1973, has set out to give the nation's oldest beauty pageant a new image — one that places talent over beauty.

The 23-year-old Depere, Wis., beauty said Sunday this is one of the things she hopes to accomplish during her reign, which began Saturday night when she won the title.

Miss Meeuwsen, the only double winner during preliminary swimsuit and talent competition, was the first Miss Wisconsin to become Miss America.

A professional singer, she believed it was her singing talent, not her beauty or 36-25-36 figure or the $7,000 wardrobe with which she arrived here, that gave her the edge over her rivals.

state it another way, the rise in incomes — is greater than the increases in food prices.

—Americans spend more money each year on food. This, too, has been the case year after year since the end of World War II. The nation's food bill, at home and at restaurants, is now well over $100 billion a year.

Clearly, there is no discrepancy in these two statements. Americans simply earn more money than before. It is the American economy, rather than the food industry specifically, which deserves the credit.

But the story is not that simple. Food buying is a complex activity in which the motivations lie deep in the psyche of the buyer. It is the struggle for existence, nothing less.

Moreover, contact with food prices is an every day or every week matter. Price changes of $1 or even $100 might go unnoticed elsewhere, but a difference of a few cents at the grocery store can precipitate a crisis.

Aware that a one-cent rise on scores of items that any family buys in a week can mount into the hundreds of dollars in a year's time, wise shoppers expend great effort in keeping down their bills.

But the struggle is made more difficult by another belief basic to the American credo, that you must improve yourself if at all possible.

Miss America was in Arkansas

The new Miss America, Miss Terry Anne Meeuwsen, who represented Wisconsin in the nationwide beauty pageant, was photographed at the Miss Arkansas Pageant in July by Pod Rogers of the Star staff as she shared a slice of watermelon with Marilyn Morgan of Clarksville, Miss Arkansas for 1971. Miss Meeuwsen, a former member of the New Christy Minstrels singing group, was crowned Saturday night.
